

Hermon Speaker Says:

Red Bloc Breaking Up

By WALT PHILLIPS

GILL — There is no longer a united Soviet bloc. Today there is "civil war" in both East and West and with no one really expecting a World War III, courtesies are turning away from their alliances, toward nationalism.

These points were made at the International Convocation on Contrasts in Communism Saturday at Mount Hermon School by the featured speaker.

Dr. Harry Schwartz, specialist in Soviet affairs, member of the New York Times editorial board and author, addressed 300 students from 20 private schools. The students also had discussion groups and refreshments at Beveridge Hall, then moved to the Northfield School campus for another talk by Dr. Schwartz and a question period.

The guest speaker suggested that the convocation theme "Is the Communist Bloc Breaking Up?" should be changed to "What Should the United States Do about the Break-up of the Communist Bloc?"

He said there is no doubt that the Communist world is breaking up—so, to some degree, is the West. He said this is because World War III is unthinkable, nobody expects it so everybody's returned to looking out for his own country first.

He said Communists no longer have an international conspiracy. They are having all they can do to keep their bloc together. "For a long time, people have thought of the good guys against the bad guys," said Dr. Schwartz. "Naturally our side was the good guys. But history has never been that simple. Life is not black or white—but varying shades of gray."

He said the Russian-Red Chinese fight reflects the trends back toward nationalism. There is evidence of it in the alliance of the atomic "have nots", Red China and France, he said. The idea of one large, gray, incoherent Communist world taking orders from Moscow is no longer a truth, he pointed out.

Soviet countries are no longer a unit—and they are paying more attention to the wants of their people and less to ideology and politics, Schwartz added. He agreed with Sen. William Fulbright that Cuba is not really a Russian satellite—that Russia's got all the problems she can handle.

Dr. Schwartz said there is no longer a united free world any more than there is a united Soviet Bloc. "A Peace of mutual terror" exists, quoting from Winston Churchill. The split between Red China and Russia has nothing to do with ideology, Dr. Schwartz insisted. It is a conflict between two countries looking out for their national interests. He pointed out DeGaulle's commitment to the grandeur of France is pure nationalism, which sometimes conflicts with U. S. desires. "There will be competitions—ideological, political and economic—but today there is nothing to gain from war," he said.

Dr. Schwartz is author of "Tsars, Mandarins and Commissars" and many other books on Russia. He is regarded as "notorious" by the Soviet press, which has denounced him and his writing, accusing him of being a "capitalist intelligence agent."

Accident, Loss, Theft On Blotter

TURNERS FALLS—A stolen car, a lost wallet, a minor accident and an ambulance run kept Montague police busy over the week-end, Chief James P. McHugh said today.

The car, a station wagon, was taken while parked near St. Kazimier's Hall on Seventh Street Saturday evening. The unidentified owner left the keys in the ignition, which, Chief McHugh said, "is an open invitation to have the vehicle stolen." The vehicle was still missing today.

A wallet containing a substantial amount of money was lost outside St. Kazimier's Hall Saturday. Anyone with information on the wallet should contact the police department at once, Chief McHugh said.

Officers Richard H. Cade and Gerald L. Couture investigated an accident on Federal Street, Millers Falls, Saturday at 7:20 p.m. A car operated by Mary A. Cuff, 21, of 10 Federal Street, was contacted by a car operated by Raymond J. Pulchalski, 45, of Federal Street, while attempting to back from her driveway.

Pulchalski, traveling south, applied his breaks and pulled to the right before striking the left rear fender of the Cuff car. There was $125 damage to the Cuff vehicle and $100 to the left front of the Pulchalski car.

Robert Clough, 92 Second Street was taken to Farren Memorial Hospital by ambulance after suffering a deep laceration over the left eye in a fall at his home Saturday at 8:45 p.m. He was treated by Dr. Spencer C. Flo and released.

Got Time For $320,000?

TURNERS FALLS — Voters of Turners Falls Fire District will gather in Hillcrest School Auditorium Thursday at 7 p.m. to determine if $320,000 will be spent to provide badly needed water for 8,000 persons. How many will be there?

The money, representing the largest single amount ever sought in the 78-year history of the district, would be used to purchase land, develop an existing well site and to construct a pumping station and four miles of piping.

The meeting will climax a five-year search for additional water by commissioners, costing to date $20,000. How many voters will be there? A conflict of interest exists—make no mistake about that. A large crowd will attend a chicken leg dinner at St. Kazimier's Society's annual Sports Night Thursday at 6 p.m. Jim Shepard, director of the state fish and game division, and a personable and entertaining speaker, will be featured.

A testimonial for a former local clergyman is slated at Thomas Memorial Golf Club the same evening and is expected to attract many well-wishers. Scores of adults and youngsters will attend a movie hour in the Elizabeth Voetsch Room of Carnegie Public Library at 7 p.m. in conjunction with National Library Week.

It will be interesting to see which event attracts the most persons. Despite the importance of the fire district meeting, it is expected attendance at the movie hour will exceed the number of voters in Hillcrest School.

WORDS THAT PRODUCE A grimace "What da ya mean, keep the change? You're two bits short!" "Well, I can fix the transmission for 400 bucks, or I can sell you a good used car for 900." "The Internal Revenue Service called while you were out—said it was urgent."

Never mind who this is. Whoever told you're a reporter? "I admit I called you a horse's neck, but there was nothing personal in it." "Do you want me to try to cover up the bald spot?" "The meeting wasn't secret. We just didn't tell anybody about it."

Never mind the wise cracks, just put in that the troop played "Bop the Cricket!" "All yes men are spineless, right?" "Of course you can go out with boys. The kids and I will stay here and eat baloney sandwiches." "You are wanted in the editor's office!" "You're not wanted in the editor's office!"

IT HAS BEEN SUGGESTED the town could save a big hunk of change by not opening all six polling places during the Presidential primaries April 28. Some old time election workers predicted 300 voters will participate in the balloting, and maintain all could vote at A.C. Hall on Fifth Street.

As reported last week, Montague spent $1,596 on the town elections March 2, with wardens, constables and eight election workers hired in all six precincts. Town Clerk Bernard McCarthy has predicted the primaries could cost $1 a vote this year. While a person's vote is priceless, it seems like a large amount of money, spent mostly for the convenience of a few.

IN ADDITION to the four major events scheduled for Thursday night, Turners Falls faces a round of events this week. Tonight, selectmen will likely decide the outcome of the Rau row and the school committee could nail the lid on the coffin of persistent false rumors about tuition pupils at Turners Falls High School, at separate meetings in the town offices.

Tuesday night, Jim Humphrey will bring Jack Baldwin, golf professional from Northfield and coach of the Mount Hermon Golf team, to dinner at the Rotary Club meeting for some inside tips on the regal game.

Wednesday morning, church and political dignitaries will perform ground-breaking ceremonies at Farren Memorial Hospital, signaling the beginning of construction on the new wing costing over a million and a half dollars. In the afternoon, Miss Marianne Rowe will conduct a story hour in Carnegie Library for the edification of our youngsters. Friday night, the annual Junior Prize Speaking contest will be in the high school auditorium.

Saturday, in addition to a day-long food sale in Knights of Columbus rooms, Montague teachers will pick up items donated by persons in Turners Falls and Montague Center for their mammoth auction at Scheff Field April 25.

And on Sunday, the Millers Falls Drum and Bugle Corps will present its color guard competition in the high school gymnasium.

All in all, it is a busy and important week.

LICENSE DECISION Expected Tonight

TURNERS FALLS — Selectmen are expected to announce a decision on the Montague Service Center Class III junk license, tonight at 7:30 in the town offices.

A public hearing on why the license should not be rescinded was conducted last week after 12 persons complained of messy, rat infested conditions at the Turners Falls Road garage operated by Jacob B. Rau. Rau submitted a counter petition April 6 signed by 353 friends and neighbors in denying all charges.

Fire Permits Required, Chief Warns In Turners

TURNERS FALLS — Outside burning for any reason is banned unless a permit has been issued by the Turners Falls fire department, Chief George E. Riel said this morning.

"The annual spring urge to clean up leaves and winter debris can be dangerous," Chief Riel warned. "It is a violation of the state fire laws to burn without a permit."

Permission to burn will be issued at the discretion of the chief if residents will call the fire station, Riel said, but no burning is allowed without permit. A permit does not release a home-owner from liability but it does allow the department to keep a close check on all-outside burning.

The only restrictions on burning with a permit are: sufficient help to control the fire must be available and no fire shall be left until it is properly extinguished. Even with a permit, if high winds should develop or if dangerous conditions exist, no one is allowed to burn, Chief Riel concluded.

Thousands Mourn MacArthur

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Showery April skies were expected to dampen only slightly today the tempo of posthumous tribute to General of the Army Douglas MacArthur.

Officials of the MacArthur Memorial Museum said they anticipated that further thousands would line the sidewalk outside the imposing, columned building while awaiting their turn to view the sunken casket where the general was interred last Saturday.

The memorial held its doors open until 9 p.m. Sunday—three hours beyond the normal closing time—to accommodate the more than 6,000 persons who came to pay their last respects.

It was scheduled to be open to the public today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., but there was a chance these hours would be extended again by heavy attendance.

More than 61,000 persons viewed the body of the general in Norfolk at the end of a week of extraordinary tribute to the man who led American soldiers into battle in three major wars. His burial here, a Navy town in which he never lived, was his request because it was the scene of his mother's birth and childhood.

The last rites Saturday under brilliant skies were attended by more than 400 civilian and military dignitaries, relatives, old comrades-in-arms and representatives of 10 foreign governments.

They began with the removal of the plain military casket bearing the remains of the 84-year-old general from the roundabout of the memorial, a reconstructed courthouse, to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, two blocks away.

Mrs. MacArthur and her son Arthur, 26, walked behind the caisson en route to the church and on the return to the memorial.

Shortly after the memorial opened a 4-year-old girl, Vivian Bayoveta, received permission to place a wreath by the crypt. She was aided by her father, M. Sgt. Solomon H. Bayoveta, who was awarded the Silver Star for protecting MacArthur from a bomb burst on Corregidor in December 1941.

Two men from Winchendon, Mass., drowned in the treacherous West River yesterday. The victims were Kent Davini, 29, and Leonard E. Reynolds, 25.

State Police said the men were in a canoe with Nelson Bartlett Jr., 28, when it capsized amidst the rocks. Davini's foot was caught between two rocks and Reynolds tried to hold him up while Bartlett, also a Winchendon resident, swam for help.

Reynolds and Davini battled the current for more than an hour, as rescuers tried several times to reach them, but Reynolds finally was swept downstream and Davini was washed beneath the rocks.

Arrest Was Necessary, Governor's Mother Says

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Malcolm Peabody, mother of Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, said today she had attracted public attention to the civil rights cause by being arrested in St. Augustine, Fla.

"I thought we could make a peaceful protest there," she said. "But then I felt we had to go the whole way and be arrested."

Mrs. Peabody appeared on the "Today" show, along with Mrs. Donald Campbell and Mrs. John Burgess. All are wives of Episcopal bishops in the Boston area.

They were arrested and jailed two weeks ago for "trespassing," conspiracy and being an "undesirable guest" as they sought to integrate a St. Augustine restaurant and motel.

"We gave courage to people there to work to better conditions," Mrs. Peabody said. "Many southerners don't want to get on the battle line."

She said southerners fear economic and personal reprisals in trying to eliminate segregation and break social customs.

Mrs. Peabody said in time more business would come to cities that end segregation. "Miami Beach and southern Florida have not suffered by being integrated," she asserted.

Mrs. Burgess, who is the wife of the suffragan bishop of Massachusetts, the nation's first Negro Episcopal bishop, is the only Negro in the trio of women. She is light-skinned.

"They thought I was white," she said. "But when I told them I was a Negro, I wasn't segwed."

Mrs. Peabody said that in the north—such as in Massachusetts and New York—the laws are good, "but prejudice still exists."

"We all must do more in our own communities to better conditions," she said. "People all over the country must stand up and be counted."

"The time for going slowly is over," Mrs. Campbell said. She is the wife of an official of the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, Mass.

All are scheduled to return to St. Augustine for trial May 5.

Johnson Aide Attempted Gag, Witness Claims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance man who injected President Johnson's name into the Senate investigation of Bobby Baker, claims a Johnson aide tried to quiet him and Baker advised him to go into hiding.

Reynolds said these alleged muzzling attempts were made when he began cooperating with Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., whose own probe of Baker touched off the inquiry by the Senate Rules Committee. Johnson then was vice president.

Reynolds' story as given by him on the interview program "From the People," taped for broadcast by Radio Press International.

"When I (cooperating with Williams) first started I received a call from Mr. George Reedy (now White House press secretary) and he contacted me in my downtown office in Washington and informed me that he had had the president (sic) in contact with him and that possibly it would be better for me to refrain from making any statements at all. That he would release all information pertaining to the insurance on the previously Sen. Johnson."

As for Baker, Reynolds quoted the onetime Senate page boy who became secretary to the Senate Democrats and built a business fortune before resigning under a cloud last October as warning him: "You get out of town and stay out of town for a couple of weeks. He'll (Williams) get you and the rest of us into jail."

The White House declined comment on the Reynolds interview and efforts to reach Baker were unsuccessful.

Five passengers, including three Jordan children, were injured.
